OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF DIXON BY ACT OF CITY COUNCIL

OFFICIAL PAPER OF LEE COUNTY BY ACT OF SUPERVISOR

Telegraph Sixty-Second Year

DIXON, ILLINOIS FRIDAY JULY 25 1913

Dixon Daily Telegraph Thirtieth Year No. 175

DAY STARTS WITH BRACE OF MISHAPS

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF STREETS GEORGE GITT WAS HURT.

STREET CAR UPSETS BUGGY

Geo. Beckingham and Mr. Windyke
Collide in Business Street Also.

Assistant Superintendent of Streets George Gitt was painfully hurt early this morning and John Connelly who was riding with him, was also slightly injured when a city street car, driven by Motorman Heckman, brushed Mr. Gitt's buggy while passing it at the north end of the Galena avenue bridge, throwing both occupants of the buggy to the pavement.

The accident took place at 6:45 o'clock and as far as can be learned can not be attributed to the carelessness of either Motorman Heckman or Mr. Gitt. Mr. Gitt was taking Mr. Connelly, who is employed on the street force, to North Dixon to do some work and when in front of the stores at the north end of the bridge the street car approached from the south.

Brushed the Buggy.

The car brushed the buggy and this caused the horse to turn suddenly, throwing both occupants out. Mr. Gitt, who is well along in years, was thrown forcibly to the pavement and struck on his head. He was rendered unconscious and remained in that condition for nearly fifteen minutes. He was cut and bruised about the forehead and on his left cheek, and also received injuries to his left knee. He also had his left wrist broken, and will not be able to resume his work for a week or ten days.

Connelly escaped more fortunately than his chief, his injuries being confined to bruises about the body and arms. It is not thought his hurts will keep him from work for any considerable time.

Another Collision.

Another street accident marked the beginning of the day when at 7:30 o'clock George Beckingham, riding a bicycle and a Mr. Windyke, driving a powerful motorcycle, collided at the corner of First street and Galena avenue. In attempting to dodge a pedestrian Mr. Beckingham turned too near the motorcycle and both machines and riders were piled up in a heap on the curb. Fortunately neither rider was hurt but the front wheel of Mr. Beckingham's bicycle was completely demolished.

BORDEN COMPANY INCREASES RATE

SIXTEEN CENTS PER HUNDRED
ADDED TO JUNE MILK
PRICES HERE.

The Borden Condensed Milk company has made a voluntary increase in their prices for last June's milk, which nets the dairymen of this community $4.298.35.

The original price on June milk was $1.10, with a 10 cent bonus or the required amount of butter fat. The company has just added 16c per hundred pounds. The news has put smiles on the faces of the local farmers.

ZELLIE FINED TODAY.

Mike Zellie, who was arraigned yesterday on a charge of disturbing the peace, which was preferred by his landlady, Mrs. Stephen Dacco, was arraigned in Justice Hill's court this morning and fined $20 and trimmings.

STRIKERS GET THEIR REQUEST AND RETURN

The cloth weavers at the Reynolds wire mill, who struck last Saturday because they were not granted a half holiday, have returned to work, a compromise having been effected whereby they will get their pay at 3 o'clock every Saturday afternoon and will be granted the rest of the day as holiday.

Pneumonia developed later.

LASALLE COUNTY

EMPLOYEE FOUND SHORT

Ottawa, July 25—Benj. F. Krouse, chief deputy in the office of John Mischke, sheriff of LaSalle county, is under arrest charged with embezzling $1,226 of the funds of the office. Krouse has confessed the shortage and today was bound over to the grand jury. ## Mid-Summer Harvest Sale in Dixon Closes Saturday Evening

CITY WILL PROTECT ITS EMPLOYEES

COMMISSIONERS THINK IT IS CHEAPER TO ASSUME ALL RISKS.

ADVERTISE PAVING PROJECTS

Bids Will Be Received for Work on Second and Third Streets.

The board of local improvements and the city council met in a joint adjourned session this afternoon and voted to advertise for bids on the Second and Third street and contributing paving projects, the bids to be received and opened at 2 p. m. Thursday, Aug. 7. The council and board decided to take this action despite the fact that the objections to the Second street project have decided to appeal the case, for a new law passed by the legislature will enable the city to spread special assessments for whatever work done, though the court decides to stop the work at a later date. It is believed that when the objectors learn they can be held for whatever work is done following the findings of the county court they will withdraw objections and allow the improvement to go through.

Municipal Insurance.
At today's meeting Attorney Keller brought up the question of the city insuring its employees under the employers' liability act, the attention of the authorities being brought to this phase by the injuries received by Assistant Street Superintendent Geo. Gitt and John Connelly today, both of whom were in the employ of the city and engaged in its affairs at the time of the accident. The commissioners decided it would be much cheaper to assume the risks than to pay from $600 to $700 annually for a blanket policy covering city employees, as it is not believed the city will incur that expense in protecting its employees.

OFFER HELP FOR GOOD ROADS PLAN

GOOD ACTS.

Charles E. Miller of the Elks' house committee, which is in charge of the big clam bake to be given on Labor day by that organization, will go to Chicago the first of the week to book several high class vaudeville acts for the big affair, and inasmuch as Mr. Miller was the man who engaged the attractions for the big Fourth of July celebration here, the patrons of the clam bake may feel assured of some really good vaudeville. For Mr. Miller will not book anything but the best available.

The Marquette orchestra has been engaged to furnish music during the entire day, and will in addition, accompany the vaudeville acts. Mr. Miller and Eli Rosenthal are again at the head of the clam bake this year, and this fact in itself assures those who attend a happy day.

The first mentioned picture is the enactment of Count Tolstoi's famous story of the Russian shoemaker who despaired of God's assistance in the time of need. The fact that the story is one of the most popular products of the pen of the famous Russian philosopher is a guarantee of the quality of the film.

"Too Much Parcel Post" is a very amusing picture and one which none should miss if they want a good laugh.

The city officials, however, are not particularly worried over this action although the appeal will delay the work, for they feel confident that the higher tribunal will affirm Judge Clarity.

The trip to this locality was brought about through photographs which Messrs. W. E. Slosson and W. A. Ball, members of the club, took in June. The photographs so impressed the members of the club that they decided to come here for their annual summer trip—for this club makes a trip of this kind every summer.

The club has been organized for 15 years and during that time the members, all of whom are wealthy, have spent the winter playing "500" and have taken auto trips in the summer. Among their membership are A. C. Becken, a millionaire jeweler, and Audrey Stauffer, the well known music publisher.

Five cars, containing 27 members of the club, will make the trip, the following being among those who will visit Dixon: Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Woodworth, the latter the permanent president of the club; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Becken, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bratt, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Buchelt, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carstens, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. # STREETS OF LONDON

Nearly All of Them Were Named After Someone.

Each Has a Meaning, but Owing to Misspelling, Etc., It Is Impossible to Conjecture Their Original Purport.

London.—Those who are most familiar with the London streets probably think least about their history. But the stranger who at rare intervals, or possibly for the first time in his life, visits the metropolis, must often speculate as to the origin of this or that thoroughfare, or wonder how some of the curiously-named streets he passes through came by their names. Since it has always been the custom in this country to name the ways of towns and cities after somebody or something, one may be sure that every one of the names of London streets once had a special meaning, though that meaning has so much lost its point in the course of time, or the original spelling has been so corrupted, that it is now in many cases practically impossible even to conjecture the original purport of the place-names of the metropolis.

Many London thoroughfares, like many a country village, probably owe their names to the existence of some hostility in the immediate neighborhood, and around which, in course of time, other houses were built, so that at last a street was formed. Hanging Sword alley, off Whitefriars street, and Catherine Wheel alley, near Liverpool street station, no doubt obtained their names in this manner. Gracechurch street, city, is said to have had nothing whatever to do with that particular virtue in the beginning, and perhaps there is no more of it there nowadays than there used to be. It was originally spelled "Grasschurch," because of the grass that once grew along its edges, or on account of the fact that vendors of herbs dwelt there.

Holborn is another corruption of a perfectly different word. Originally it was "Old Bourne" or "Hill Bourne," so-called from the stream which broke out near where Holborn Bars afterward stood, and ran down the side of the street to the Fleet river. From the latter, as every one may suppose, Fleet street took its name. And as a final example of the corruption of names, brought about by a loose regard for spelling and pronunciation, one may instance the Barbican, which, as we are assured, is an easy rendering of the old word "burk-kenning"—watch tower.

It is a little difficult in these days to believe that the area about Charing Cross was no more than a little village in the time of Edward I. Opinions differ as to the first meaning of the word "Cross" attached to the name of this hamlet, but it is probable that it had the same significance that is to be discovered in other cases of the kind in London and the country.

There have probably been crossroads here from time immemorial, but it is said that in the case of Charing Cross there was a more specific reason. Edward I. is stated to have erected a cross in memory of his queen on the spot where the statue of Charles I. was afterward set up.

Peculiarly, if we may believe the usual explanation given for its curious name, was so called because the first person to build a house in that neighborhood was interested in "picadilloes," by which name the stiff collars or ruffs formerly worn were originally known.

Abundant evidence as to the marshy nature of the ground upon which a large part of the city of London was originally built is still to be discovered in such names as Frenchchurch street, Finsbury and Moorfields.

Made Scene Too Realistic.

Columbus, O.—Too much realism has caused trouble for Roy W. Emig. Bert Kocher, who took the part of a whitecapper in Emig's play, "Scalplock of Stony Lonesome," has sued Emig for $100 damages. In the play Kocher had the role of a Brown county whitecapper. After a bunch of make-believe Indiana university students had tied his hands and feet they "hazed" him. To make the scene more realistic, they used clippers on his hair. Kocher now says the hair-cutting gave him a cold and that he was humiliated in the sight of his friends.

PASSING OF SUNDAY SUPPER

Chafing Dish Messee Now Seem Largely to Comprise the Sabbath Evening Repast.

Time was when the Sunday night supper was of even more vital importance than the midday dinner, especially in those towns and villages where strict religious principles prohibited cooking on the Sabbath.

It was not considered wrong to mix a pan of biscuits the night before and bake them for supper, so that these hot, puffy features of the meal, with honey or some of mother's quince preserves or canned cherries, were looked forward to with joyous anticipation.

As time passed, the stringent line relaxed as far as cooking for supper was concerned, and, in addition to cold salads, there would always be some hot dish, such as the real old-fashioned hash or scrambled eggs, with creamed potatoes.

City life has changed all this. Even the suburbanite who apes city ways has the mahogany table cleared, the doilies used in place of the regulation dinner cloth, and the chafing dish placed in front of the hostess, the ingredients at hand, and the lamp trimmed and burning. From this she turns out creamed chicken and ham, deviled sardines, mutton ragout and other "messes"—her grandmother would call them, as she waxes reminiscent on the honey and hot biscuit era.

Won't Hurt Bill.

"Hello, Bill. Come, let us save your soul. It can't hurt you, and it will help us. Be a good fellow!"

The committee has the suggestion under advisement.

The borrower let payment slide for several seasons, never referring to it until a short time ago, when he burst into the Chicago opera house manager's office and began to blurt: "Somebody told me that you have been talking about me," he said abruptly, "because I happen to owe you some money. I know I owe you money, but I have forgotten exactly how much. Is it $3 or $4?" "Four," answered Kingsbury in a hurry.—Chicago Evening Post.

M'DERMOTT HIS AID SUIT TO BREAK UP TELEPHONE TRUST

MULHALL SAYS ILLINOISAN "BORROWED" MONEY.

Lobbyist Swears Congressman Helped Him Fight Against Labor Bills.

Washington, July 25.—Martin M. Mulhall related before the senate lobby investigating committee details of the relations which he claimed to have established with Representative James T. McDermott of the Fourth Illinois district and I. H. McMichael, who, according to Mulhall's testimony, was Mr. McDermott's confidential secretary while occupying other positions on the rolls of the house of representatives. That McDermott frequently "borrowed" money, but never repaid, and that McDermott turned over to him letters from labor leaders were among the things testified to by the witness.

Mulhall told the committee that he, James A. Emery and others had a "secret room" in the basement of the house side of the capitol where they conferred and made long distance telephone calls. He said the room had been furnished by Representative McDermott.

"I first got acquainted with McMichael when I came back from McDermott's district in September, 1909," said Mulhall in reply to questions from members of the committee. "I went to McDermott's district to find out what his standing was. I had met McDermott in January, 1909, when I invited him to be present at the tariff convention in Indianapolis. Under my instructions I was to extend the invitation to all members of congress. "McDermott on the occasion of our first meeting inquired who was at the head of the organization getting up the convention, and when I told him he used uncouth language. I found him one of the roughest men in politics. He used abusive language, especially in reference to President Taft."

STATE TROOPS TO QUELL RIOTS

Governor of Michigan Orders Out Militia to stop Disorder at Copper Mines

MANY ARE HURT BY STRIKERS

Deputy Sheriffs Guarding Property Are Attacked by Infuriated Men, Stripped of Stars and Severely Beaten.

Calumet, Mich., July 25.—Owing to the violation of orders issued by the Western Federation of Labor which forbade violence, 2,400 state troops were ordered out last night to quell riots caused by many of the 15,000 miners who are on strike in the copper belt of Michigan.

Two troops of cavalry, two companies of artillery and all the infantry companies of the Michigan National Guard were ordered north at once to quell disturbances. Adjutant General R. C. Vandercook received the orders at Lansing from Governor Ferris and acted immediately.

Thousands of rounds of ammunition and two field guns of the Lansing artillery companies, supplied with shrapnel shells, were included in the equipment of the troops.

Rioting attacks on mine guards and the injury of several persons in a brawl led Sheriff Crane to ask Governor Ferris for troops.

The governor was on the way to Alpena. When the request reached him at Bay City he was included to think the sheriff was unduly alarmed. Later reports, however, convinced the governor that armed help was needed, so he ordered General Vandercook to rush soldiers to the strike zone.

The chief disturbance that set the troops in motion was an assault on deputy sheriffs stationed at the mines of the Calumet & Hecla company to protect property.

Strikers Overpower Deputies. About three hundred strikers, armed with steel drills, clubs and stones, and a few with firearms, which they fired into the air, marched to the No. 2 Conglomerate shaft and stripped the deputies of stars.

The victorious strikers, meeting little opposition, proceeded to the Hecla branch mine and divested the deputies there of their insignia of authority. The strikers then surrounded all the surface plants of the Calumet & Hecla company and forced suspension of auxiliary operations in these plants.

Strikers Parade in Calumet. Whether the strikers yielded to the advice of leaders or were frightened by the call for troops, they ceased their riotous demonstrations late in the afternoon. More than 500 miners from Amheer marched to Calumet and paraded the streets, shouting for the union, but attempted no violence.

Several mass meetings were held and great enthusiasm was shown when the speakers exhorted the men to remain faithful to the strike orders. Several men were armed with clubs and others were said to carry knives and revolvers.

Strikers Raid a Brewery. At Hancock strikers went to the Park Brewing company's plant, operated by non-union men, and closed it, driving away the brewers. Union meetings were held at night at all points affected by the strike.

Vice-President Mahoney of the Western Federation of Miners arrived and took full charge of the strike situation. He announced that he would do his best to keep the men from rioting, but would countenance no withdrawal from the strikers' position. He also gave permission to keep the pumps in the mines at work.

Orders Saloons Closed. Lansing, Mich., July 25.—Attorney General Fellows telegraphed the prosecuting attorney of Houghton and Keweenaw counties to close all saloons and prohibit the sale of liquor in the strike district.

MOBS BURN AND LOOT

Chinese City Panic Stricken as Bombs Burst Among Refugees.

London, July 25.—A Shanghai dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says: "Looting has begun in the city and the residents are fleeing. Many fires were caused by burning shells and several foreigners wounded by stray shots."

"Shanghai is so full of refugees from Nanking and Kiu-Kiang that the people are sleeping in the streets. A boatload of southern deserters was sunk by the gunboat fire. The northerners have occupied a rebel fort near the arsenal."

West Brooklyn 13, Lee Center 3.

We perused the Chicago papers on Monday morning to see if we could find out how the base ball game ended at Lee Center Sunday afternoon, where the local team played and could find no mention of it. We took the trouble to go over to the man-ager's office and learned that the Lee Center team had been walloped un-mercifully by the score of 13 to 3. Then we did not wonder longer why the score did not appear in the Chica-go papers. The score shows the relative strength of the two teams and after all the Lee Center boys are a nice bunch of folks and were not to blame for defeating us the Sunday previous by a much advertised score of 2 to 1. Some say the tenth player they had did the work but neverthe-less we will not dwell upon subject longer but tell of Sunday's game which puts West Brooklyn on top with a game won by the score of 7 to 1, and a game won by the score of 13 to 3. In Sunday's game Willie Big-gart hit a home run with bases full which netted four runs in the third inning. R. Malach also did some lively hitting, securing four straight hits, one of them being good for two bases. All the players did well and the outfielders deserve special men-tion for their work. They fielded their positions in faultless style. Mc-Crea opened the scoring in the first inning by following his hit all the way home with the assistance of J. Malach, who also scored in the initial inning. Pitcher Long succeeded in getting another hit to keep his av-erage at the top of the list. Instead of a hit, Clarence White got hit and scored on Leslie Derr's hit. Michel did not get a hit but took two bases on balls and scored once. Every mem-ber helped win the game. The Calla-han brothers are a good battery for Lee Center. The other players are good boys also, but not good ball players, as their 13 errors show. Len-lan, imported from Amboy by Lee

Center, on first base, hit a home run

In the fifth, the only earned run for Lee Center. West Brooklyn earned 10 of their 13 runs. The score:

OBITUARY

SARAH C. MILLER.

Miss Sarah C. Miller, for 60 years a resident of Palmyra township, was laid to rest in the beautiful Prairieville cemetery this afternoon. A short service was held at the home of her sister, Miss Louisa Miller, 318 Logan avenue, this city, at 2 o'clock preparatory to the final service, which was conducted by Dr. F. D. Altman at the Prairieville church at 3. Miss Miller was a member of a family of nine children, four sons and five daughters, only one of whom now survives her. The parents moved to Palmyra township 70 years ago. Miss Miller was born there and lived on the homestead during nearly all of these years. Had she lived until Aug. 21st, she would have been 62 years old. Early in life she united with the Lutheran church, of which she was a faithful and earnest member. For many years she had been much afflicted, but through it all she manifested a noble spirit and bravely and beautifully met life's varied experiences, especially its trials. She was loved by those who knew her and in the earlier years before the more severe afflictions impaired her vigor of body and mind, she was most helpful and active in her circles of acquaintances. The neighbors and friends of a quarter of a century remember her as a kind and considerate young woman, unselfish and untiring in her devotion to useful service. It is one of the mysteries of life that such an attractive and lovely soul should so long walk in the deep shadows. "At evening time it shall be light." It may be clear to her now.

TURNS ON M'DERMOTT

Mulhall Charges Illinoisan Aided Him as Lobbyist.

Former Agent of N. A. M. Also Asserts That Congressman Often "Borrowed" Money.

Washington, July 25.—The senate lobby investigating committee of the senate was told by Martin M. Mulhall details of the relations which he claimed to have established with Representative James T. McDermott of the Fourth Illinois district and I. H. McMichael, who, according to Mulhall's testimony, was Mr. McDermott's confidential secretary while occupying other positions on the rolls of the house of representatives. That McDermott frequently "borrowed" money, but never repaid, and that McDermott turned over to him letters from labor leaders were among the things testified to by Mulhall.

Mulhall told the committee that he, James A. Emery and others had a "secret room" in the basement of the house side of the capitol where they conferred and made long distance telephone calls. He said the room had been furnished by Representative McDermott.

"I first got acquainted with McMichael when I came back from McDermott's district in September, 1909," said Mulhall in reply to questions from members of the committee. "I went to McDermott's district to find out what his standing was. I had met McDermott in January, 1909, when I invited him to be present at the tariff convention in Indianapolis. Under my instructions I was to extend the invitation to all members of congress."

"McDermott on the occasion of our first meeting inquired who was at the head of the organization getting up the convention, and when I told him he used uncouth language. I found him one of the roughest men in politics. He used abusive language, especially in reference to President Taft."

TWO DIE DURING INITIATION

Prospective Members of Moose Lodge Shocked to Death.

Birmingham, Ala., July 25.—Donald A. Kenney, a chauffeur, and Christopher Gustin, an iron molder, were killed by an electric shock at the local hall of the Loyal Order of Moose.

An initiation was in progress and it is alleged that an electric shock was a part of the ceremony.

In some way not yet explained Kenney and Gustin, it is stated, received too much current.

It was at first thought the two men had fainted and they were hurried to a hospital, where both died shortly afterwards.

Lodge officials have made no statement regarding the affair.

SET OUT TO PLEASE CRANKS

Clerk Who Gained Good Will of Difficult Customers Deserved Promotion That Followed.

"Anybody can hold the trade of a good-natured customer," said the superintendent of a large mercantile establishment to a new clerk. "It's the man who can please the cranks and chronic kickers whom we want and who will find himself in line for promotion."

The new clerk remembered. He set himself to please difficult customers, the ones who like to complain and will find an opportunity to do so no matter how good the service and merchandise. "I realized," he says, "that their money is just as good as the next man's, though it may be more difficult to get."

It was not long before the obliging clerk had built up a personal trade, so that critical customers would ask for him on entering the shop. They liked to be waited on by one whom they knew desired to please. Often

No One to Take the Bet.

There are lots of things worse than living for a week at the detention home, in the opinion of little Johnnie, a little orphan, who has known about nine years of life in the ways of the city streets. He made that institution his home for about a week at the order of Judge Taylor of juvenile court, pending the finding of a permanent home for him by the board of children's guardians.

During his stay there he gained nine pounds. He was a different boy on the day of his discharge, compared with the hungry, shiftless lad that went in.

"Did you eat lots of bread and molasses at the detention home, Johnnie?" he was asked in juvenile court. "You bet," he answered, with a merry twinkle in his eye.—Indianapolis News.

Characteristics of Draft Horses

Satisfactory Returns Accrue to the Successful Breeder.

By Rufus C. Obrecht, Formerly of University of Illinois.

All classes of horses are being produced within the state of Illinois, but horses of draft blood predominate. Even so, the demand for this class is far in excess of the supply; for this reason prices are at a profitable point, and satisfactory returns are sure to accrue to the breeder.

Classes of Draft Horses.

Draft horses, whose principal work is to haul heavy loads at the walk, are divided into three sub-classes: heavy draft, light draft, and loggers, all of which are much of the same type. The ideal drafter as a rugged, heavy set, compactly built horse with great weight and strength. Strength and endurance are the principal qualities sought and are best secured by the horse throwing weight into the collar rather than by muscular exertion of the limbs. The drafter should be a broad, massive individual with symmetry of bone and muscle, standing from 15-3 to 17-2 hands high and in good flesh weighing not less than 1,600 pounds for the lighter back and crouping should be short and the loin broad and well muscled, this region being the connecting link adjoining the propellers, to the weight carriers. The hips should be round and smooth; the croup, long and muscular; the quarters, deep; the thighs, broad; the gaskins and cankins and cannons relatively short. The head should be medium in size and neatly set on a neck of good length, with crest moderately heavy and well developed. The ideal conformation of the draft horse will vary somewhat according to the market under consideration. European markets, especially British markets, want a more upstanding draft horse with a longer neck than is demanded by American markets. New York being a great shipping port, demands larger and more upstanding horses than any other city in the United States. This is because of the large wagons used and heavy loading for the docks. The large amount of business done and the long waits that are made before a place can be found at the docks to unload, have caused merchants to sorts. Since he does his work by throwing weight into the collar, the heavier the horse, other things being equal, the more efficient he will be. Along with weight he should possess moderately heavy bone, with quality, indicating sufficient strength and substance to carry his body and not give the appearance of being top heavy.

Good type of light draft horse, but plain in head and a little thin in flesh. Height 16-1 hands. Weight 1,750 pounds.

His height should result from depth of body rather than length of leg; in fact as a rule the medium short legged horses possess more endurance than those with long legs. He should be broad of chest, with a large girth and not cut up in the flank. His legs should set well under his body, for if they are otherwise and he is very broad he will likely be inclined to roll, causing laborious action. The

Benefits of Hog Cholera Serum

By W. J. Carmichael, Assistant in Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois.

Up to the present time no sure cure for hog cholera has been found. However, the method of vaccination bids fair to become the only possible means of controlling the disease. The treatment is given by injecting serum (and sometimes virus or diseased blood) from a hyperimmunized hog under the skin of the animal.

Several states have undertaken the preparation of hog cholera serum and dispensation of it at a nominal price of 1 1/2c per cc., which just about covers the cost of production; others, such as our own, have never made a charge, but send it out to those who are in need. They have treated in this state approximately 240,000 head of hogs, 80 per cent of these with the simultaneous method, and the results have been very satisfactory. Although there is supposed to be no curative properties in the serum, it is we find that where infected herds are treated that there seems to be a smaller loss than where they are not. There is no positive proof of this as yet, and some claim no such properties exist, but from several herds under observation this seems to be the effect.

We must get together in earnest co-operation and vaccinate systematically if we will control this disease; it must be done in regions of infection to prevent the spread of disease. All animals which die should be buried; after an attack of the disease, if one should get in ahead of the treatment, the premises should be cleaned up and thoroughly disinfected to prevent later outbreaks and spreading. If we will work together in this method, exercising utmost care, we have good prospects for freeing swine raising from the present risk, thereby insuring all who undertake it, that they will enjoy reasonable profit at least in so far as this one factor is

IN THE BRONZE AGE

Rare Antiquities Secured by Royal Irish Academy.

Specimens Recently Unearthed Prove High Civilization—Centuries Before Christ People of Erin Emerged From Barbarism.

Dublin.—The Royal Irish academy recently acquired some very fine specimens of Irish antiquities which show the wonderfully high level of civilization had reached in Ireland centuries before the birth of Christ. These objects are now on view in the antiquities section of the National museum in Dublin. They include two bronze celts, two gold fibulae, a bronze fibula and a number of amber beads, which were dug up by workmen in a field in County Cork in 1907.

One of the gold fibulae weighs over three ounces and the other nearly two ounces. The bronze fibula is of a rare type, and the amber beads are also of great importance, as the finding of them in association with the other objects places beyond dispute the fact, which was often surmised but never definitely ascertained until now, that many of the amber beads found in Ireland can be placed in the bronze age.

Another object recently added to the collection is the well-known rapier from Lissane, County Dory, of which the academy had previously had only a model. This rapier is the longest ever discovered in the British Islands, and it is one of the most perfect ever found in Europe. It was discovered in a bog at Lissane in 1897, and after passing through various hands it eventually came into the possession of the Hon. Mrs. Henniker Heaton, wife of the British postal reformer, from whom the academy purchased it this year.

There is another rapier which was found recently in Lough Erne at a depth of 17 feet under water, close to the old castle of Crom, near Enniskillen. Mr. George Coffey, the leading Irish authority on this subject, describes this rapier as probably the most perfect and best preserved that has yet been discovered. The point and edge of the blade are as perfect and sharp as when they left the hands of the worker centuries before our era.

Mr. Coffey says it can be seen from the objects now in possession of the academy that the civilization of Ireland in the bronze age was much higher than has been commonly assumed, and was spread generally over the country.

BIRD HAS TRAGEDY SECRET

Denver Police Hope Parrot Will Clear Death of Couple in a Hotel There.

Denver, Colo.—A group of detectives began a vigil around the cloth draped cage of a parrot in the hope that the bird would testify as the sole witness to the supposed murder and suicide of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Johnson, whose bodies were found in a hotel room Tuesday.

The bird was found walking restlessly along the footboard of the bed, muttering to the bodies. It had belonged to Johnson for years.

The police, believing that there was a quarrel before the tragedy, called in an aviculturist to cross-examine the parrot. The bird refused to answer and as a final resort the bird man suggested that the cage be covered and watched. Believing itself along the bird might then croon some sharp ejaculations and exclamations that would impress it had a quarrel occurred before the tragedy.

THE LITTLE BROWN CHURCH

Religious Song Was Inspired by Edifice Erected in Iowa in 1859.

Boston.—One of the acts of the moon and religion forward movement has been to revive a once popular song about a "little brown church in the vale." The church itself that inspired the song bade fair to suffer eclipse, but was preserved through the sentimental regard of its old friends, as The Congregationalist (Boston) tells us:

"Some forty or fifty years ago a song known as 'The Little Brown Church in the Vale' caught the popular fancy and literally went around the world. The president of the National Music Teachers' association belonging to a sturdy Scotch family used to join heartily with his seven brothers in singing the song with no thought that any particular church was meant. Later, he was astonished to learn that the veritable 'Little Brown Church' was not far from his Iowa home. It is a real church, a Congregational church, and is at Bradford in northern Iowa. Some pioneers in northern Iowa met for worship in a log house for some time and finally organized a church. In 1859 Rev. J. K. Nutting became pastor and it was determined to erect a house of worship. This required much sacrifice, for all were poor and there was, actually, almost no money in circulation. Those early farmers made the frame from timber growing along the Cedar river. The boards for the siding and what hardware was used had to be hauled over the corduroy roads and through swamps from McGregor, sixty miles away. The dedication was a great event. Many people drove forty miles to be present. The church prospered and soon after Bedford Academy was erected so that the community became an educational and religious center. When the railroad came, it ran on the opposite side of the river. Nashua sprang up and gradually the people moved to the new town and Bradford disappeared from the map. The academy building is going to decay, but sentiment has prompted the people to preserve 'The Little Brown Church, and it is in a good state of repair. Dr. W. S. Pitts was one of the pioneers that came under the influence of this church in the early days and he did more than any one else to make it known.

Little Brown Church in the Vale. Which inspired the popular song of fifty years ago.

GREENFIELD'S 40 MILE VIEW

New Tower Is Erected in Connecticut by Town and the Local Board of Trade.

Greenfield, Conn.—The Globe presents herewith a picture of the new tower just completed on Poets Seat, Greenfield. It is built of local sandstone and commands a beautiful view up and down the Connecticut Valley of the Shelburne Hills on the west and other ranges of hills to the east.

On a clear day a view of 40 miles can be obtained. The cost of the tower is something more than $2,000. Of this the town appropriated $1,500; several hundred dollars was secured by the Board of Trade of Greenfield.

The plans were drawn by Jerome Allen, a native of Greenfield but now a New York architect, and were given to the town by Mr. Allen without financial compensation. The builder was Peter Barber.

The tower is 41 feet and 3 inches high from grade to the top platform, with a stone parapet four feet high and corner pinnacles eight feet high. The walls are 18 inches thick, with a slight better about half the height of the tower, thus increasing the thickness of the walls at the bottom.

There are three reinforced concrete platforms. The stairs from the ground to the second platform are made of reinforced concrete with landings at each turn. The upper flight to the top, or observation platform, is a circular iron staircase placed in a corner, to give the maximum platform on the second and third platforms.

All stairs are about three feet wide. All railings are four feet high. Those in the triple arches on the second platform are of stone, while those in the other openings are of iron. The stair railings are also of iron.

ITALIAN VILLA LIFE

No Sense of Effort There, But Everywhere Are Flowers.

Tuscan Homes, Where Medieval Customs Gradually Are Giving Way to Modernity—Rest Is to Be Found at Florence.

Florence.—Life in an Italian villa sounds an idyllic experience to those in teeming cities, and these old world gardens, nearly always built on charming sites, do possess an attraction distinctive from that of ordinary country houses. The luxuriance of the flowers, with their brilliant coloring and easy growth, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor, helps the restful atmosphere which is so characteristic; but the graceful manners and pleasant acceptance of work and burdens by the servants have also considerable part of the charm. The sense of effort is as lacking as the sense of rush, and yet there is perpetual gentle activity manifest everywhere. Every villa of importance, for example, has a farm attached to it, where maize and the vines and mulberries and fig trees flourish; no ruthless noises of machinery disturb the peace of these unhedged patches, wreathed from tree to tree; the plaintive folk songs of the peasants rising and falling like a Gregorian chant, alone are heard with the incessant murmur of the grill or cicadas, and when the stream runs near, the brack-kek-kek of frogs.

Most Tuscan villas are built on hills and nowhere are they lovelier than round Florence. There are few more fascinating experiences than visiting these villas. Behind forbidding walls, over whose tops masses of Banksia roses clamber, such unexpected vistas wait; and even when the villa stands out the center of a commanding group of cypresses, one may be certain of surprises as one wanders up and down its terraces.

The patch of ilex that makes so sharp a blot upon the hillside turns out to be a hollow grove to which one descends by a tiny twisting path guarded by lichen-stained turf. Here a tea table is set on velvet tuft, and through an unexpected gap extends a glorious panorama of fertile hills and the many towered city. Water is trickling near, and the comfortable cane chairs invite one to listen to the slumberous murmur, while an old servant who might have stepped out of a Paolo Veronese brings in a tea service of renaissance gold plate, and transports one to the century when Cellini fashioned such things for his patrons.

MAKES A POOR "PRODIGAL"

Joseph Salus Tries to Kiss Sister, but Is Taken for Stranger and Severely Beaten.

Webster, Mass.—The return of Joseph Salus of Chicago to his home here after an absence of twelve years was marked by a reception different from that of the biblical prodigal.

Salus desired to surprise his people, and there had been no forewarning of his presence when the door was opened by his sister, now Mrs. Sak.

Overjoyed at seeing her, Salus embraced the woman, who screamed, bringing her husband to her side. Salus was floored with a left-hand swing. Before he could recover the angry husband seized the supposed intruder by the neck, dragged him down a flight of stairs, threw him into the street and called the police.

When the time for explanations arrived Salus established his identity and received his welcome home and first aid for his injuries.

Dog Went 25 Miles for Aid.

Gueda Springs, Kan.—Mrs. John Richards, was awakened by a dog scratching on her front door. She discovered the family pet of her father at the door and, thinking something was wrong, mounted a horse and hurried to his home, 25 miles away. She found her father dying.

Bull Gored Horses to Death.

Fallsville, Pa.—Breaking an iron chain by which he was fastened to the trunk of a tree, an infuriated bull owned by Earl Ralston, broke down a fence that separated him from two horses that were grazing in an adjoining field and gored them to death.

NUN TELLS OF ALASKAN LIFE

Vivid Story of Struggle Against Hardships and Privations in the Arctic Region.

Nome.—A vivid story of the struggle against hardship in Alaska and privations endured because of religious fervor, is told in a letter received by Mrs. R. H. Keith, 3308 Baltimore Avenue, from Sister Mary Amadore, superior of the Ursulines of Alaska, at the Ursuline convent of St. Michael.

The letter is in part an expression of gratitude for aid in establishing church mission in the north. Through the description of life in that far country scattered throughout the letter are glimpses of a personality that has seen deep into life.

"Eight months of the year does the river lay frozen," the writer says, "and the snow heaps up, while the children lead their busy school life and the parents trap the wolverines and the fox and descend beneath the snow into their subterranean dwellings."

"The Innuits have well defined customs from which they may not depart, and one of these, which makes education difficult, is this: The parent may not correct or punish the child. Hence our little ones come to the convent with a great idea of their importance, and with their native stubbornness weighted with years of inherited formalism, and it requires wisdom and patience and all the powers of convent discipline to train these little ones of the snow."

Of the land she writes further: "But though nature seems so stern, so silent, she turns the pages of her great book with a kind and open hand for the Eskimo. He reads her secrets aright and learns from her the prudence and endurance necessary in battling with her own gigantic forces." The Jesuit fathers of the north she describes: "Not reeds shaken by the winds, these sons of Ignatius, but stalwart pioneers, men who never think of gold or of themselves; men who go right on with their eyes heavenward, deeper in all the powers that learning and sanctity give—culture and the deep peace of the interior life."

In the Kajib, "a round igloo, entered by a narrow subterranean gallery, into which you must crawl on hands and feet," is the stadium of Eskimo life. "Here sits the story teller, droning out the tribal tales; here thrives the shaman, in all the pomp of his fantastic tricks; here do the Eskimos take their daily sweat bath and while away the lazy hours in endless council."

SEE TRACES OF GIANT RACE

Skeletons of Big Men and Stone Hammer and Bone Awaits Uncovered by Investigators in California.

Stanford University, California.—Recent excavations indicate that the peninsula south of San Francisco once was inhabited by a race of giant stature. Prof. Harold Heath of the zoologic department of Stanford university has unearthed, about two miles south of here, several skeletons of men who were more than six feet in height.

A prehistoric village, covering nearly two acres, has been the scene of Professor Heath's investigations. Stone hammers, bone awls and ornaments found by his party indicate that their owners had attained considerable advancement in artisanship and civilization.

Numerous buried villages have been discovered on the peninsula, several within the city limits of San Francisco. Professor Heath says the inhabitants apparently were neither warlike nor energetic.

INDIA DESCRIBE

Writer Gives Graphic Description of Country.

Many Houses Have Never Been Entered by a European and Never Will Be—Women Are Always Closely Veiled.

Bombay, India.—Reviewing J. A. Spender's book, "The Indian Scene," the London Spectator says:

To those who have not seen India the descriptive chapters of "The Indian Scene" will be of very great interest. Mr. Spender is content to describe what he saw in the simplest way, and by this means gives the reader a strong sense of the reality of what he is told. Nowhere is this done with more completeness than in the opening chapter on Bombay. What strikes him is not the place so much as the people. Every street swarms with them, and "no half dozen seem alike." Their color varies from white to very nearly black, their costume "from the frock coat to the loin cloth."

Then there is the contrast between life and death, between the rich Parsee living in his pretentious stone built house on the seashore, and the same man carried, as soon as he has closed his eyes, to the towers of silence, with their "obscene semicircles of vultures sitting huddled together on the rims of the two pits waiting for their next meal." And then there is the fact—more separating races perhaps than any other feature of Indian life—that into the vast majority of houses which "to all outward seeming might be the homes of European nouveau riches," no European has ever entered or ever will enter. He must not see the women who live in them. When a shuttered or curtained carriage passes him for the first time in the street, he is told that a woman is inside, and that is his nearest approach to knowledge of one-half of Indian life.

When he leaves Bombay Mr. Spender, does his best to answer the simple question, What does India look like? Somewhat north of Baroda he opens the shutters of his sleeping carriage and at first sees nothing to tell him that he is not in Europe. The country is flat, it has many trees, it is cut up into small fields and very closely cultivated. It is the human element and the animal element that make it unlike Europe—the women "swathed in crimson muslin," the children "either naked or fantastically dressed up, the thin walnut colored men, with white turbans and bare legs, the big loose limbed donkeys who pass in a kind of ambling gallop," the hump-backed cattle, "mild miniature beasts," the straight-backed lead colored buffaloes. Then comes a railway station and a fresh "riot of color and fancy." Opposite the carriage stands a venerable gentleman in bright green flowered silk dressing gown, with a pink turban and white pajamas; near him there is a woman "in a shapeless mass of orange cotton," a tiny child, "with embroidered coat and absurd little buff trousers ending in red shoes," and an old man who wears a gray frock coat with a crimson turban, and wraps his legs in "a careless swathe of white muslin." Mr. Spender's train was delayed for ten minutes because a party of ladies had to be got out. An immense sheet was held in front of their carriage, in which they were somehow entrapped, and the group was left "standing like a great, white box in the middle of the platform."

NOTED CATHEDRAL IN SPAIN

Statue of Virgin in the Toledo Wears a Mantel on Which Are Embroidered 78,000 Pearls.

Madrid, Spain.—Spain is richer in cathedrals than any other country in the world, and one of the grandest of them all is at Toledo. The Virgin Mary is said to have a special liking for it and to have paid it frequent visits—on one occasion actually putting a new robe on St. Idefonso, one of the archbishops. In fact the scene is represented in sculpture and painting in all parts of the cathedral, and, to preclude all doubt about it, the very stone is shown on which the Virgin alighted. It is incased in red marble and over it is the inscription: "We will worship in the place where her feet have stood."

There are several statues of the Virgin in the Toledo cathedral, each of which is adorned with a gorgeous gown. One wears a mantle upon which are embroidered 78,000 pearls. The massive proportions and ornate architecture of the cathedral at Toledo make it one of the most gorgeous in the world. After the bright glare of the Spanish sunlight, it is marvelous how beautiful is the interior as it comes streaming through 750 varicolored windows. The pavement is of variegated marble and around the walls are twenty-three elaborate chapels.

The greatest artists of Spain labored on this cathedral for six centuries. It is not strange, therefore, that it excites the visitor's enthusiasm. The choir, for example, is decorated with probably the most elaborate wood carving in the world. Around a pavement of white marble rise, on three sides, two rows of seats for the priests, one above the other. Their arms, back, feet, headpieces and railings are exquisitely carved into sacred, grotesque, mythological or historical subjects in bas-relief.

One's first impression on entering the cathedral is most vivid and imposing. Five naves divide the church. The middle one is of great height, and the others beside it seem to bow their heads and kneel in token of admiration and respect. Eighty-eight pillars, each as large as a tower and each composed of sixteen spindleshaped columns bound together, sustain the enormous mass of the building.

The architecture of the whole building is homogeneous and perfect, which is a very rare virtue in Gothic architecture. The original plan, in spite of the many years it was building, has been adhered to from one end to the other, with the exception of a few arrangements of the chapels, which, however, do not interfere with the harmony of the general effect.

BOATS FOR SCHOOL "KIDS"

Argentine Government Thus Reaches Thousands of Children to Educate Them.

Buenos Aires.—The Argentine government has solved the problem of providing education for the floating population along the delta of the La Plata river with school boats. These floating schools go from point to point along the La Plata and its tributaries, changing the roll of students as the school steams to new territory along the waterfront.

In addition to saving thousands of dollars in the annual expenses of the department of education, it is officially reported that education is now being brought to thousands of Argentine children who were previously without any scholastic attention whatsoever.

Each schoolship consists of double-deck sections devoted to the higher and lower classes; while a terrace and private apartments for the teaching staff form the superstructure. The ships have a capacity of two hundred pupils each. They are absolutely health assuring, and their value in meeting the peculiar difficulties confronting the education department in the La Plata delta is considerable.

Indeed their success has been such that a number of additional school ships for other waterfront districts are now in course of construction.

Sued for Preventing Marriage. Nashville.—Father T. C. Abbott of St. Patrick's church has been sued for $10,000 by Miss Bessie Etherly, twenty years old, a Protestant, on the charge that he prevented her marriage to J. J. Walsh, a Catholic. Walsh procured a license, but Miss Etherly charges that Father Abbott refused to perform the ceremony and personally carried the license back to the clerk of court telling him not to issue another. Walsh has since refused to disobey the order of the judge.

DRIVER OF AUTO IS JAILED

Jury Finds Chicagoan Guilty of Manslaughter.
Chicago, July 25.—The second conviction for murder of a reckless automobilist in Chicago was recorded when Fred Hrodek, a twenty-three-year-old chauffeur, was found guilty by a jury which fixed his punishment at 14 years imprisonment in the penitentiary. At Clark avenue, Austin, the machine struck and instantly killed Patrick J. Condon. The man's body was mixed up in the gear of the machine and this forced Hrodek to stop the car.

Both he and Cordes appeared to be under the influence of liquor and the most impressive point brought out before the jury was their cold-blooded conduct in protesting that the car might be injured in disentangling the body of the dead man.

"DRY" HEAD COMMON DRUNK

Former Leader of Prohibitionists Is Sent to Jail.
Milwaukee, July 25.—M. M. Riley, once a prominent and wealthy attorney here as well as the leading spirit of the Prohibition party in Wisconsin for many years and a candidate for mayor on that ticket, was sentenced to 60 days in the house of correction on a charge of being a common drunkard.

Pathfinder in California.

Bishop, Cal., July 25.—The vanguard of the Indiana automobile pathfinders on the Lincoln highway cross continental tour crossed the California state line. Seventeen cars formed the procession. A big California delegation welcomed the travelers at the state line, where a metal monument was erected.

HOW BRIAR PIPES ARE MADE

Average Smoker Not Aware of the Work Involved in Manufacture of His Pipe.

Briar root pipes have been in continuous use in this country for many years, but the general public, even the pipe smokers, have little idea of how they are made or of the time and attention necessary in their manufacture.

The briar which furnishes the root from which the pipes are made is the shrub called the white heath, or heather, and is found chiefly in the south of Italy, on the island of Corsica and in Algeria. The shrub often grows to a large size, although only the roots are used in the pipe-making industry.

After the roots have been cleaned of the earth which clings to them they are sawed into blocks of various dimensions, placed in vats and allowed to simmer for twelve hours, which brings out the rich brown color for which the finest pipes are prized.

Following this boiling process the blocks are steam dried for two weeks and then are sent to the factory, where they are converted into pipes. The blocks are sorted according to size by experts, are placed on shelves and kept at an even temperature for ten days, when they are dried and then are sent to the machines, where the actual manufacture begins. After the blocks have been trimmed to the proper size, the upper part of the bowl is turned, then the lower part and stem, and then they are sandpapered. The finishing of the bowls then takes place.

French Artist's Criticism.

Count Charles de Chebannes, the French portrait painter, who is now in this country, says that the most beautiful American women are in Philadelphia, even the maids of that city, he says, causing him to stop and exclaim about their beauty. Washington women use too much powder and paint, he says, and do it so artistically, painting the same way in the evening as they did in the morning, with horrible results.
